Boomzookee Bird Toys was created to provide your feathered friends with fun, exciting toys and safety as the top priority. Since my birds are the most important things in my life (besides my spouse), I took a part of each of their names, Boomer (Congo African Grey), Kazoo (Red Front Macaw) and Yankee Doodle (Timneh African Grey) and came up with Boomzookee! This was one way I could acknowledge the love I have for these wonderful creatures.

I design all toys with the hope that your birds will have as much fun destroying them as I did making them!

Chirping Central is all about the birds. This is the place where like minded "bird people" can network, make new friends, find old friends, and stay up to date on what is happening in the avian world. We endeavor to inform and raise awareness on a number of levels, but most of all we are about avian conservation – whether it be a Southwestern Willow Flycatcher, or a Lear's Macaw, we are here to provide information, educate, raise awareness, and hopefully make a difference in achieving a successful outcome for these endangered species. Because we are all about avian conservation, we believe that combined we DO have the power to help achieve a successful outcome for these creatures, but WE HAVE TO CARE. We have to know what is happening and remain aware, remain informed and part of the conversation. So Chirping Central LLC was formed in order to provide a venue for the conversation and also provide information about avian conservation projects, items of concern etc. The site is meant to be an information source, and we encourage all of you to actively participate in both providing information and being a reader of the information. And of course we want you to have some fun along the way through our social networking feature. Happy chirping!

It's Time To FORAGE! Let us help divide your parrots time and eliminate boredom today! It's Parrot Pockets--the Ultimate Foraging TOY! The Ultimate experience for your bird while you're away or there to watch them play. It's time for our birds to do what they do naturally--work for their food.

Nearly 70 percent of a wild parrot's day is spent eating or acquiring food. Parrot Pockets® have been created to fill the need for our birds to work for each bite. Be creative on what to fill it with--nuts, seeds, cereal, dry noodles, paper, etc. No more tossing food out the food dish. It's time to forage like they are hanging out on a clay lick

ART YOU WEAR

We like the domino as a canvas because it's big enough for the image to be seen and it remains flat when you wear it. Our special domino is very (very) light to wear, durable (not fragile), and waterproof!

Our mission is to send joy, beauty, and even humor into the world one lovely domino at a time. While there is a limit to how many paintings a person might buy in a year or in their lifetime, there is no limit to how art can be enjoyed while worn around our necks. We see this as bringing ART to EYE LEVEL. We have carefully selected phenomenal art and are proud to have a part in others being able to see and enjoy it.

The Schubot Exotic Bird Health Center at Texas A&M University was founded by an endowment from Mr. Richard M. Schubot in 1987, with matching funds provided by Texas A&M. The Schubot Center supports research into all aspects of disease in wild and captive birds, particularly the large parrot species - a favorite of Mr. Schubot - as well as endangered species (e.g., the Attwater's Prairie Chicken). Our work includes studies on infectious and parasitic disease, and research on avian nutrition. Scientists at Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine as well as at the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory, the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Science and the Department of Poultry Science are engaged in a variety of research studies, the results of which will be applied to protecting the health of wild birds and those kept by zoos, aviculturists and individual pet owners. The Schubot Center research programs are specifically selected for their role in protecting birds, enhancing their survival, and improving their quality of life.

Wild4Ever was founded with the simple goal of preserving wildlife and wild areas for the benefit of the animals and the people who appreciate them.

Wild4Ever targets projects where the money goes directly to help the animals in the field. We support dedicated conservationists who are determined to make a difference. We also look for projects that include local education to promote our conservation efforts and garner support for continued conservation long after our projects are completed! Our flagship animal is the jaguar. By conserving a top predator, we conserve all the animals and plants in its range. We also support many other animals and projects worldwide as well as locally-since conservation should begin at home. We support a number of local wildlife rehabilitation organizations in our own "backyard", and support conservation efforts across the country.
